Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on May 26, 2005 has been entered.
2. Claim 17, 19-21, 23-30 are pending.
3. The rejection of claim 17 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ridley (US Patent No. 4,678,593) is withdrawn in view of Applicants' amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
5. Claims 17, 19-20 and 23-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Salager et al. (EP 0,846,756), hereinafter "Salager".

Salager teaches detergent tablets comprising a core and a coating, the tablet further comprises a disintegrant, at least some of the disintegrant being in the coating (see abstract). Suitable coating materials include C2-C13 dicarboxylic acids, preferably oxalic acid, malonic acid, succinic acid, glutaric acid, adipic acid, etc. (see page 3, lines 44-48). Salager also teaches adding a disintegrant in the coating such as starch, cellulose and clay, among others (see page 4, lines 14-21). Salager also teaches tablets comprising builders which include alkali metal salts of polyacetic acids such as ethylenediamine tetraacetic acid and nitrilotriacetic acid (see page 6, lines 35-38) and phosphonate builders such as ethane-1-hydroxy-1,1-diphosphonate (see page 7, lines 1-2). Other components in the tablet include perfumes (see page 9, lines 51-53). Salager also teaches a process for making the tablet which comprises the steps of (a) forming a core by compressing a particulate material, the particulate material comprising surfactant and detergent builder; (b) applying a coating material to the core, the coating material being in the form of a melt; (c) allowing the molten coating material to solidify; wherein the coating material comprises a disintegrant (see page 2, lines 41-46). In an alternative embodiment, the process comprises the steps of (a) forming a core by compressing a particulate material, the particulate material comprising surfactant and detergent builder; (b) applying a coating material to the core, the coating material being dissolved in a solvent; (c) allowing the solvent to evaporate wherein the coating material comprises a disintegrant (see page 2, lines 48-55). Salager, however, fails to specifically disclose a tablet comprising a clay, perfume, and heavy metal ion sequestrant wherein the tablet comprises a coating comprising a clay.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to prepare a tablet comprising a clay, perfume, and heavy metal ion sequestrant

wherein the tablet comprises a coating comprising a clay because the teachings of Salager encompass these aspects.

6. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Salager as applied to the above claims, and further in view of Creed (US Patent No. 6,007,735).

Salager teaches the features as described above. Salager, however, fails to teach a coating comprising a heavy metal ion sequestrant.

Creed teaches cleaning tablets coated with water soluble coating which can be organic or inorganic such as inorganic sequestering agents to prevent dusting of the tablet (see col. 2, lines 42-47; col. 4, line 66).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the inorganic sequestering agent of Creed in the coating of Salager because this would prevent dusting of the tablet as taught by Creed.
